

Khoya (food)

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Khoya_\(food\))

See also /chenna-Mawa

Khoya or khoya or khawa or mawa is a milk food, made of either dried whole milk or milk thickened by heating milk in an open iron pan.

It is similar to ricotta cheese, but lower in moisture^[1] and made from whole milk instead of whey.

There are three types of khoya - batti, chickna, and daan-e-daar. Batti, meaning