

Truth is a rare commodity these days. We are in an era, where "End justifies the Means"; and if you seek power, you may have to lie, cheat, murder, terrorize, and do whatever you can, as there is no higher authority to check you. It is like larger fish, swallow the smaller ones, and the rat race goes on, from the top to the bottom in every nation on earth.

Religions, have persistently been rubbished by atheists, and the prevalent sentiment, is one of indifference. There is no God, but it is suggested that to be happy one should just be a good human being. Co-exist with the Evil ones. If the human needs to survive, then take whatever it takes, but do not get in the way of civil law, and if you are caught, use money to get out. If you do not have it, then it is your "fate". There are enough people who when in a position of authority take this position and feel great and are proud of their invincibility.

If you think that the fourth estate (the Media) is uncorrupted, you may find yourself in for a shock. Some have nicknamed them as 'Presstitutes' - for money anything goes, until someone explodes a bomb on someone's head, and then they go "incognito" and search them high and low, you will not find them. Perhaps they are already been trapped and are resting in a jail cell framed for the survival of the bigger fish.

So far our only hope is the Supreme Court, but what will happen if they too get corrupted, after all they too are humans, and do we know what their inner beliefs are ? People in power bet on the Law. But when they are confronted, the Law goes into hiding. Judgments are made by the lower courts and the higher ones reject them. There are some like 'pimps', are always on the doorstep of the courts, day in and day out. Their job is to file petitions, to get inconvenient people from the way. You watch and see, the drama that is being played out, and you wonder if it is a TV serial, or whether it is a mirage !

When all is tested and tried, and start to see that even the most powerful empires have ultimately failed, then perhaps, you may like to look back at those peaceful days, when you relied on God. Relying on Him, is not the prerogative of any particular Religion, but it is all pervasive, and has been there from the beginning of mankind. What if He really exists, and cares. He may take his own time, and people of this generation may not be alive to see him act. Act for sure he will do. When that time comes, it will be very late for the corrupt and evil generation.

Where to find Truth ?
