Demonetization in INdia

Written by W.J.Pais

When things are done for genuine reasons, people do not find any difficulty, but when motives are suspect, then only those who benefit from a move will praise it and other will find fault.

Demonetization, though said to block black money, does not seem to gel with many, and the possibility of ulterior motives, just before elections, can not be fended off.   When every ordinary person, finds difficulty in purchasing the essentials for life, the Party in power does not exhibit any sense of urgency.   Do they not need food and vegetables ?   From where do they get their money ?   The news is going around that they have stashed their funds before the announcement was made.   In coming days, the secrets will come to light, and may blast in the faces of those in power.

Oratory and public relations are considered as mediums to influence the gullible people, and indeed they have succeeded in putting Modi in power.   The visuals betray as the same are not done with a finesse. One can not deny that in the population at large the people with a keen sense seem to be a minority.
